7. Update on the PhD courses and events planned in 2021 The Climate Science course will take place entirely online during the spring and the lectures are planned to be recorded. The date for the spring lunch for the PhD students has been now fixed to the 28th of May so that not coincides with "klimatfestivalen". The study coordinators discussed with the SRC the possibility to organize a summer course or a regular course with focus on science communication but unfortunately the SRC has answered that they are not able to do that this year. Hildred Crill, however, has happily agreed to give the course on scientific writing during the autumn and the study coordinators are working to be able to offer a course on machine learning after the positive response they got from the students.
